OPPOSITION OF CHAPTER 7 TRUSTEE
TO PETITION FOR WRIT OF MANDAMUS

Joseph B. Collins, Chapter 7 Trustee of CK Liquidation Corporation (the "Trustee"), hereby opposes the petition of Robert White ("White") for a writ of mandamus to the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Massachusetts (Western Division), the Honorable Henry J. Boroff, dated March 26, 2006 (the "Petition"). The Petition seeks to set aside the Bankruptcy Court's order dated March 20, 2006 (the "Order"), denying White's Motion to Proceed In Forma Pauperis dated February 17, 2006 (the "Motion").

As grounds for this opposition, the Trustee states that (1) the Petition is moot as a result of the Bankruptcy Court's April 5, 2006 order dismissing the appeal to which the Motion relates, and (2) in any event, the Petition does not satisfy the conditions required for the issuance of the writ. More specifically, a writ of mandamus may issue only if (i) the party seeking issuance of the writ has no other means to attain the relief he desires, (ii) the petitioner satisfies the burden of showing that his right to the issuance of the writ is clear and indisputable, and (iii) even if the first two prerequisites have been met, the issuing court, in the exercise of its discretion, must be satisfied that the writ is appropriate under the circumstances. As more fully discussed below, White is unable to meet any of these conditions, and, accordingly, the Petition should be denied.

<sup>1</sup> It appears that the Petition for Writ of Mandamus has been mistakenly docketed in this case. As noted in this Opposition, Robert White's Petition for Writ of Mandamus seeks to set aside an order of the Bankruptcy Court dated March 20, 2006, which is an entirely separate matter than the Petition for a Writ of Habeas Corpus filed by Robert White to initiate this case.

In further support of this Opposition, the Trustee states as follows:

Background

The history of White's numerous appeals and misuse of the bankruptcy process in the Debtor's case is well detailed in the Order,<sup>2</sup> and only needs to be briefly supplemented here.

1. On January 10, 2006, the Trustee filed an Application to Employ Auctioneer (the "Auctioneer Application"). By the Auctioneer Application, the Trustee sought to employ an auctioneer to dispose of White's vehicles, which had been turned over to the Trustee in partial satisfaction of contempt sanctions totaling $3,500.<sup>3</sup> After a hearing on the Auctioneer Application, the Bankruptcy Court denied the Auctioneer Application and ordered that White be "purged of any contempt of this Court's previous orders that he pay to the bankruptcy estate sanctions in the sum of $3,500 . . . ." See Order dated February 7, 2006 (the "Purge Order") [Bankr. Docket No. 708.] No other provision of the Purge Order has any effect, direct or indirect, on White.

2. In yet another example of White's litigation practice in this case, on February 7, 2006, White appealed the Purge Order to the United States District Court for the District of Massachusetts (the "Appeal"), notwithstanding the fact that it is favorable to his interests. In connection with the Appeal, White filed the Motion. By the Motion, White seeks to proceed with the Appeal without having to pay the applicable appellate filing and other fees. On March 20, 2006, the Bankruptcy Court denied the Motion and directed White to pay the appropriate filing fees by April 4, 2006. White did not appeal the Order, he did not seek a stay of the Order, nor did he pay the filing fees by April 4, 2006 as directed by the Bankruptcy Court.

<sup>3</sup> The Bankruptcy Court's order dated November 16, 2004 sanctioned White $2,500 in connection with his conduct in the Chapter 7 Case (the "Initial Sanctions Order"). The Bankruptcy Court's subsequent order dated May 23, 2005, in addition to finding White in contempt of the Initial Sanctions Order, sanctioned him an additional $1,000.

Accordingly, on April 5, 2006, the Bankruptcy Court entered an order<sup>4</sup> dismissing the Appeal for failure to comply with the Order.<sup>5</sup>

3. In the meantime, on or about March 26, 2006, White served the Petition. The Trustee files this Opposition to the Petition because it is moot and, in any event, wholly without merit.

Opposition

A. The Petition is Moot

4. Pursuant to the Order, White was directed to pay the appellate filing and other fees by April 4, 2006. On March 20, 2006, the same date of the Order, the Bankruptcy Court served a Notice of Filing Fee Due on Motion, whereby White was given notice of the amount of the fee ($255) and the clerk's address for submission of the payment. White did not appeal the Order, did not request a stay of the Order, nor did he make the payment by April 4, 2006. As a result of White's non-compliance with the Order, on April 5, 2006, the Bankruptcy Court dismissed the Appeal. Accordingly, the associated Motion to Proceed In Forma Pauperis is now needless, and the Petition is moot. For this reason alone, the Petition should be denied.

<sup>5</sup> To the extent it concerns this Court, the Trustee submits that the Appeal, had it made it to the District Court, should have been dismissed because of, among other reasons, White's lack of standing. See Spenlinhauer v. O'Donnell (In re Spenlinhauer), 261 F.3d 113, 117 (1st Cir. 2001) ("Only a 'person aggrieved' by a bankruptcy court order has standing to appeal."). As the beneficiary of the Bankruptcy Court's Purge Order, White is not a person aggrieved by the order, and therefore has no standing to pursue the appeal. The Trustee filed a Motion to Dismiss, which presumably will not be ruled upon given the dismissal of the Appeal. A copy of the Motion to Dismiss is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

B. The Petition Does Not Satisfy the Conditions Required for the Issuance of a Writ of Mandamus

5. The common-law writ of mandamus against a lower court is codified at 28 U.S.C. § 1651(a): "The Supreme Court and all courts established by Act of Congress may issue all writs necessary or appropriate in aid of their respective jurisdictions and agreeable to the usages and principles of law." This is a "drastic and extraordinary" remedy "reserved for really extraordinary causes." Ex parte Fahey, 332 U.S. 258, 259-260 (1947). "The traditional use of the writ in aid of appellate jurisdiction both at common law and in the federal courts has been to confine [the court against which mandamus is sought] to a lawful exercise of its prescribed jurisdiction." Roche v. Evaporated Milk Assn., 319 U.S. 21, 26 (1943); In re Pearson, 990 F.2d 653, 656 (1st Cir. 1993). Although courts have not "confined themselves to an arbitrary and technical definition of 'jurisdiction,'" Will v. United States, 389 U.S. 90, 95 (1967), "only exceptional circumstances amounting to a judicial 'usurpation of power,'" id., or a "clear abuse of discretion," Bankers Life & Casualty Co. v. Holland, 346 U.S. 379, 383 (1953), "will justify the invocation of this extraordinary remedy." Will, 389 U.S. at 95.

6. As the writ is one of "the most potent weapons in the judicial arsenal," id., at 107, three conditions must be satisfied before it may issue. Kerr v. United States Dist. Court for Northern Dist. of Cal., 426 U.S. 394, 403 (1976). First, "the party seeking issuance of the writ [must] have no other adequate means to attain the relief he desires," id.--a condition designed to ensure that the writ will not be used as a substitute for the regular appeals process. Fahey, supra, at 260; see also Stauble v. Warrob, Inc., 977 F.2d 690, 693 (1st Cir. 1992) ("mandamus is generally inappropriate when the petitioner has an adequate remedy by a direct appeal following the entry of a judgment."); In re Recticel Foam Corporation, 859 F.2d 1000, 1005 (1st Cir. 1988) ("a party seeking mandamus must 'have no other adequate means to attain the relief he desires . .

. ."). Second, the petitioner must satisfy "the burden of showing that [his] right to issuance of the writ is "clear and indisputable." Kerr, supra, at 403, (quoting Bankers Life & Casualty Co., supra, at 384; see also United States v. Horn, 29 F.3d 755, 769 (1st Cir. 1994) ("[m]andamus is ordinarily appropriate in those rare cases in which the issuance (or nonissuance) of an order presents a question anent the limits of judicial power, poses some special risk of irreparable harm to the appellant, and is palpably erroneous."). Third, even if the first two prerequisites have been met, the issuing court, in the exercise of its discretion, must be satisfied that the writ is appropriate under the circumstances. Kerr, supra, at 403 (citing Schlagenhauf v. Holder, 379 U.S. 104, 112, n.8 (1964)).

7. Even if this Court were to conclude that the Petition is not moot, White certainly does not satisfy the conditions required for the issuance of a writ of mandamus. First, White's failure to pursue an appeal of the Order on a timely basis, or his decision not to appeal the Order, does not somehow create a right to pursue in a mandamus action what otherwise would have been an appealable issue. Second, White is unable to carry the burden of proving that the Order was palpably erroneous, and that his right to the writ is clear and indisputable. To the contrary, the Order is well-founded, detailing White's failure to meet either factor of the test for approval of a motion to proceed in forma pauperis.<sup>6</sup> More specifically, the Bankruptcy Court

[A] determination as to whether the Debtor's application to proceed in forma pauperis on appeal should be granted turns on two factors: (1) a showing by affidavit that he is unable to pay the filing fees, see Adkins v. E.I. DuPont de Nemours & Co., 335 U.S. 331, 339-40, 69 S.Ct. 85, 93 L.Ed. 43 (1948), and (2) a showing that the proposed proceedings are not frivolous or malicious, see 28 U.S.C. § 1915(e).

Order at p. 17 (quoting Hegmann v. Indorf, et al. (In re Hegmann), 324 B.R. 415 (1st Cir. B.A.P. 2005)).

demonstrated that White is neither impoverished<sup>7</sup> and, more importantly, the frivolous nature of the Appeal. Lastly, this is quite simply not the exceptional circumstance for which the extraordinary writ of mandamus should issue. Indeed, this is just another frivolous filing by White that should be denied.

WHEREFORE, Joseph B. Collins, the Chapter 7 Trustee of the debtor CK Liquidation Corporation, respectfully requests that this Court enter an order:

1. Denying the Petition; and
2. Granting such further and additional relief as the Court deems appropriate.

<sup>7</sup> In addition to the findings made by the Bankruptcy Court, the Motion is even more suspect in light of White's recent letter to the Trustee's counsel, whereby he acknowledges having received $613,000 from the Debtor in the five years preceding the 2003 bankruptcy. A copy of the letter is attached hereto as Exhibit D. In his Affidavit in Support of Motion to Proceed In Forma Pauperis (attached to the Motion), White claims to own less than $4,000 in assets and possess only $75 in a single checking account.

MEMORANDUM OF DECISION

Before this Court is a "Motion to Proceed In Forma Pauperis" filed by Robert White, a creditor in this case. Although rulings on such motions are typically informed by a limited and short history of prior proceedings, the appropriate disposition of this motion requires its review in proper extended context.

I. BACKGROUND

CK Liquidation Corporation, formerly known as Cadkey Corporation (the "Debtor"), filed a voluntary petition under Chapter 11 of the United States Bankruptcy Code, see 11 U.S.C. § 101, et. seq., on August 22, 2003. The Debtor, a manufacturer and distributor of software used in the construction industry, filed the Chapter 11 case with the goal of selling its assets as a going concern in order to maximize its value and retain its employees.

On August 29, 2003, the Debtor filed a motion seeking leave to sell its assets free and clear of all liens, claims, encumbrances and other interests (the "Sale Motion"). The Debtor also requested pre-approval of certain bidding procedures (the "Proposed Bidding Procedures") relative to the sale. A hearing on the Proposed Bidding Procedures was scheduled for September 9, 2003.

On September 4, 2003, the United States trustee filed notice of her appointment of an Unsecured Creditors Committee. That Creditors Committee, comprised of four (4) members, included Nded, Inc. of Boise City, Idaho. Nded, Inc. was represented on the Creditors Committee by its President, Robert White ("White").

On September 8, 2003, Microcontrol Systems, Inc. (a secured creditor), Harold Bowers (the largest unsecured creditor) and the Creditors Committee each filed an objection to the Proposed Bidding Procedures. On that date, White also filed an objection to the Proposed Bidding Procedures. In that objection, which was filed on White's behalf by an attorney well experienced in bankruptcy law, White represented that he was a creditor of the estate in his individual capacity.

White's objections were similar to the other three objections – complaining, inter alia, that the terms of the proposed sale were not in the best interest of creditors and that immediate sale of the assets was not warranted or necessary at that time. White did not disclose in his objection that he was trying to establish an investment group so that he could bid to purchase the assets himself.<sup>1</sup>

On September 12, 2003, this Court issued an order establishing the bidding procedures for the sale, sustaining in part and overruling in part, the various objections. That order also set the sale hearing for October 20, 2003.

On October 9, 2003, White filed an objection to the proposed sale. He complained that the sale of the assets was "chilled" by ownership claims made by Harold Bowers to certain intellectual property which the Debtor intended to sell. The Creditors Committee was also concerned with the intellectual property issues, and requested that this Court determine the extent of Bowers' interest prior to the sale. White asked instead for a 30-60 day continuance of the sale date. White failed to expressly indicate that he was preparing a sale bid himself. Attached, however, to White's objection were emails sent to the Debtor's dealers asking for revenue projections that White could employ relative to his "business plan" and "joint venture."

The problems associated with the Bowers ownership claims were ultimately resolved for the purpose of the sale hearing.<sup>2</sup> On November 6, 2003, after an

<sup>2</sup> This was not without some difficulty. Bowers filed a motion with the District Court to withdraw the reference of the bankruptcy case to the District Court. The District Court (Gorton, J.) temporarily withdrew the reference long enough for Bowers, the Debtor and the Creditors Committee to come to an agreement relative to amended sale procedures. Pursuant to those procedures, the Bowers ownership claim was to have been left open until after the winning bidder was announced. However, after further extensive negotiation between the parties, Bowers agreed to accept $750,000.00 from the winning bidder, Kubotek Corporation, in addition to any dividend on his claim against the bankruptcy estate, and release Kubotek Corporation and others from all of the ownership claims. But after the sale, Bowers initially declined to sign the settlement documentation. Then, after complying, receiving the $750,000.00 payment and releasing Kubotek Corporation from any claims, Bowers disavowed the settlement, maintaining that he (and this Court) had been defrauded by counsel for the Debtor and counsel for the Creditors Committee as to the dividend that unsecured creditors could expect on their claims. He filed a motion asking that the Sale Order be vacated. After a two-day trial, this Court determined that Bowers' allegations of fraud were frivolous, but has not yet entered an order finally denying the motion, pending requests by various parties for the imposition of monetary sanctions against Bowers under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure evidentiary hearing, this Court approved a sale of the Debtor's assets to Kubotek Corporation,<sup>3</sup> for the sum of $2,850,000.00 (the "Sale Order").<sup>4</sup>

On November 14, 2003, White filed a notice of appeal of the Sale Order, pro se,<sup>5</sup> and elected to have the appeal heard by the District Court. On November 8, 2004, the Sale Order was affirmed by the District Court. White v. Official Comm. of Unsecured Creditors (In re Cadkey Corp.), 317 B.R. 19 (D. Mass. 2004) (Gorton, J.). White appealed further to the First Circuit Court of Appeals. On September 12, 2005, the First Circuit affirmed the District Court's order. White then filed a petition for writ of certiorari to the United States Supreme Court, which was denied on February 21, 2006. White has since filed in the United States Supreme Court a motion for rehearing on the denial of his petition.

On February 2, 2004, the Debtor filed a motion to convert its case to one under Chapter 7 of the Bankruptcy Code. The motion was allowed, without objection, on March 4, 2004. Thereafter, John A. Burdick was appointed as Chapter 7 trustee (the

<sup>3</sup> Kubotek Corporation was not the proposed buyer initially set forth in the Sale Motion. Practice in this district requires that the estate representative, in conjunction with a proposed sale of estate assets, attempt to locate counterbidders for the assets. See Mass. Local Bankr. R. 6004-1(a). The original buyer eventually dropped out of contention, and Kubotek Corporation was the successful bidder.

<sup>4</sup> The Sale Order also established a $250,000.00 reserve to pay for the costs of defending any appeal filed by White.

<sup>5</sup> The appeal was filed pro se, notwithstanding the fact that White was then represented by counsel. Indeed, White has filed all subsequent pleadings pro se. His attorney filed a motion to withdraw on March 24, 2004. That motion was allowed, without opposition, on April 8, 2004. Yet, all of the filings by White, pro se, betray the hand of an individual with a significant amount of legal training – a skill which White does not pretend to have.

"Trustee"). On March 19, 2004, the Trustee filed a motion to retain Attorney Michael Goldberg ("Goldberg"), who formerly represented the Creditors Committee, as special counsel to represent the Trustee, inter alia, in connection with the appeal by White. White opposed, arguing that such retention would represent a duplication of effort. On July 6, 2004, White filed a second objection to the Trustee's motion to employ special counsel. In that objection, White alleged that Goldberg had made false representations to the Court during the sale hearing. On August 17, 2004, this Court overruled White's objections and granted the Trustee's motion to retain Goldberg as special counsel.

On August 13, 2004, White filed in this Bankruptcy Court a motion to vacate the Sale Order (the "Motion to Vacate"). In the Motion to Vacate, White again claimed that Goldberg, while acting as counsel for the Creditors Committee, and Attorney James Wilton ("Wilton"), counsel for the Debtor, had each defrauded the Court by misrepresenting both what unsecured creditors could expect to receive from the sale and their expected requests for compensation. As grounds for this contention, White relied on statements Goldberg and Wilton had made at the sale hearing in response to an inquiry from the Court as to the likely impact of the sale upon the expected dividend for creditors.<sup>6</sup> White claimed that fees owed to Goldberg and White had consumed all of the sale proceeds.

<sup>6</sup> The Motion to Vacate reflected White's complete misunderstanding of what the Court had asked at the sale hearing and how Goldberg and Wilton had responded. Furthermore, White misconstrued a later communication from the Trustee to White as to the funds which the Trustee then held on account of the sale proceeds.

A hearing on the Motion to Vacate was initially set for September 7, 2004. However, White filed a motion seeking an extension of the hearing date, in order to obtain more affordable air fare to travel to Massachusetts. After further review of the Motion to Vacate in connection with White's request for an extension of the hearing date, this Court concluded that – particularly in light of the frivolous nature of the allegations, the costs to all parties of attending a hearing whose outcome was certain and the pendency of the appeal of the underlying Sale Order before the District Court – the Motion to Vacate could be disposed of expeditiously<sup>7</sup> without the necessity of a hearing. Accordingly, on September 8, 2004, the Motion to Vacate was denied.

Among the various reasons why the Motion to Vacate had no merit, this Court noted that the Trustee's opposition indicated that he held substantial sale proceeds. This Court further emphasized, based on the transcript of the Sale Hearing, that neither Goldberg nor Wilton had ever made any representation as to what dividend would be available for general unsecured creditors – only what would be available for creditors. And the Court commented: "Administrative claimants are also creditors who are entitled to share in the proceeds held by the estate."

On September 10, 2004, White moved for reconsideration of the September 8, 2004 order denying the Motion to Vacate (the "Motion for Reconsideration"). In the Motion for Reconsideration, White altered his allegations of what remained in the estate, but continued to claim that the Court had been defrauded. This time, however, he also inserted additional allegations, including, inter alia, that other creditors had also been defrauded, that "appellate issues" had been "concealed," that Kubotek Corporation had somehow participated in a fraud, and that Kubotek Corporation had engaged in sale collusion and the sale had been chilled. The Motion for Reconsideration was denied on September 13, 2004. White filed a notice of appeal to the District Court on September 15, 2004. That appeal was dismissed by the District Court (Gorton, J.). White then moved the District Court for reconsideration. Reconsideration was denied. At that point, White decided to forego an appeal to the First Circuit Court of Appeals and sought to file an appeal directly with the United States Supreme Court. The District Court returned the notice of appeal to White as improperly filed.

But White was not done. On October 12, 2004, White filed another motion, this time seeking that interim fees previously awarded to Goldberg and Wilton<sup>8</sup> be disgorged (the "Motion to Disgorge"). There, he argued that, because this Court commented in its September 8, 2004 order that Goldberg and Wilton were creditors by virtue of their services to the estate, they were in conflict with other creditors for estate funds and therefore no longer "disinterested" persons as required by 11 U.S.C. § 328(c).<sup>9</sup> This Court was able to immediately dispatch that absurd proposition,<sup>10</sup> but became <sup>9</sup> Section 328(c) provides that the "court may deny allowance of compensation for services and reimbursement of expenses of a professional person . . . if . . . such professional person is not a disinterested person . . ." 11 U.S.C. § 328(c).

<sup>10</sup> The claims held by court-approved professionals, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 503(b), are not those which preclude employment under 11 U.S.C. § 328. See White v. Burdick (In re CK Liquidation Corp.), 321 B.R. 355 (1st Cir. BAP 2005). Furthermore, simple logic would dictate that if a claim for compensation precluded the employment as a court-approved professional, increasingly concerned about the drain of estate assets occasioned by White's continuing frivolous allegations.<sup>11</sup> Accordingly, on October 19, 2004, this Court denied the Motion to Disgorge with the following order (the "Show Cause Order"):

Denied for the reasons stated in the joint opposition to motion to disgorge filed October 18, 2004. The movant is further ordered to appear before this court on November 16, 2004 at 11:30 a.m. in Worcester and show cause why he should not be sanctioned pursuant to Fed.R.Bankr.P. 9011(c)(1)(B), on account of the filing of this frivolous motion.

On October 27, 2004, White filed a response to the Show Cause Order, essentially repeating the frivolous allegations made in the Motion to Disgorge. In addition, on the same day, White filed an appeal to the District Court of denial of the Motion to Disgorge contained in the Show Cause Order. That appeal was subsequently dismissed by the District Court because White failed to pay the filing fee.

On November 15, 2004, the Trustee responded to the Show Cause Order. There, the Trustee complained bitterly of the costs associated with responding to the frivolous pleadings filed by White, and he estimated that those costs approximated $32,000.00. The Trustee requested that any remedies this Court might contemplate such professionals could never be employed, being foreclosed from compensation as soon as they rendered services on behalf of the party for whom their retention had been approved.

<sup>11</sup> The estate, by this time, had been forced to deal with an objection to the Proposed Bidding Procedures, an objection to the sale, the appeal of the Sale Order, the Motion to Vacate the Sale Order, the Motion to Reconsider the denial of the Motion to Vacate, the appeal of the denial and failure to reconsider the Motion to Vacate, two objections to the retention of Goldberg as special counsel, and now the Motion to Disgorge. Each of those motions had or would entail substantial costs, draining the assets of the estate and correspondingly reducing any dividend for unsecured creditors.

include a prohibition against White filing any further papers with the Bankruptcy Court and a requirement that White withdraw any pending appeals.

The Show Cause hearing took place on November 19, 2004. Sanctions under Rule 9011 were assessed against White in the amount of $2,500, to be paid to the Trustee (notwithstanding the Trustee's allegations of $32,000.00 already spent in fending off frivolous allegations made by White in various contexts). This Court specifically found that the allegations made in the Motion to Disgorge "were not warranted by existing law or by a nonfrivolous argument for the extension, modification or reversal of existing law or the establishment of new law; that they were presented for an improper purpose, and that is to harass estate functionaries." When White complained that the payment would be difficult in light of his current employment, he was granted sixty (60) days to make the payment. And, because the Court was uncomfortable ordering White not to file any more papers with the Bankruptcy Court (and undoubtedly without jurisdiction to order him to withdraw his appeals), the restraints requested by the Trustee were not imposed.<sup>12</sup> But the Court did warn White that further frivolous allegations would be met by significantly greater sanctions. The sanction of $2,500 (the "Sanctions Order") was due to the Trustee on January 18, 2005.

On November 26, 2004, White appealed the Sanctions Order to the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel for the First Circuit (the "First Circuit BAP"). He did not seek a stay from the First Circuit BAP pending appeal. The First Circuit BAP affirmed the Sanctions

Order on March 11, 2005. White v. Burdick (In re CK Liquidation Corp.), 321 B.R. 355 (1st Cir. BAP 2005). White then sought further review from the First Circuit Court of Appeals, where the matter (No. 05-9004) is still pending.

On March 16, 2005, approximately four (4) months after the issuance of the Sanctions Order and two (2) months after the sanctions were due, the Trustee filed a motion asking that White be held in civil contempt for failure to comply with the Sanctions Order (the "Contempt Motion"). On April 21, 2005, five (5) months after the Sanctions Order, White filed a motion seeking a stay of the Sanctions Order pending appeal to the First Circuit (the "Stay Motion"). In support, White suggested that the estate would not be prejudiced by the delay because it could offset the sanctions against the dividend which he expected to receive on his unsecured claim. White also alleged that he could not afford to pay the sanctions. This Court scheduled both the Contempt Motion and the Stay Motion for evidentiary hearing on May 23, 2005. On May 3, 2005, White responded by seeking a stay from the First Circuit. On May 25, 2005, the First Circuit court denied his request for a stay, without prejudice, granting White leave to file a renewed motion if this Court issued an order of contempt.<sup>13</sup>

After the hearing on May 23, 2005, this Court also denied White's request for a stay of the Sanctions Order. His suggestion that any dividend on his claim be offset against his sanction was not viable for four (4) reasons. First, the actions of White and Harold Bowers had so drained estate assets that this Court could not longer be certain <sup>13</sup> Notwithstanding this Court's order of May 23, 2005, finding White in contempt, White did not file a renewed motion seeking a stay of the Sanctions Order from the First Circuit until June 3, 2005. The First Circuit has not yet ruled on that motion.

what dividend remained available for unsecured creditors. Second, White was, and still is, a defendant in a voidable preference action brought against him by the Trustee. To the extent that the Court awarded judgment against White and he failed to pay that judgment, White's claim against the estate would not be allowable in any amount. See 11 U.S.C. § 502(d). Third, the kind of accommodation sought by White was inappropriate with respect to an individual otherwise in civil contempt of a court order over an extended period of time. And fourth, a stay pending appeal is only appropriate where there is a likelihood of success on the merits of the appeal.<sup>14</sup> This Court had already found White's arguments frivolous and that finding had been affirmed by the First Circuit BAP.

At the May 23, 2005 hearing this Court also took evidence on White's ability to pay the sanctions. White's testimony in this regard was not in any respect credible. He <sup>14</sup> It is well settled that, on request of an appellant, a court should grant a stay of the order subject to appeal if:

- (1) there is a likelihood of success on the merits of the appeal;
- (2) the moving party will suffer irreparable harm if a stay is not granted;
- (3) the harm to the moving party if the stay is not granted is greater than the injury to the opposing party if the stay is granted; and
- (4) the public interest would not be adversely affected by the issuance of the stay.

Furthermore, application by the trial court of the first factor (likelihood of success on the merits of the appeal) is best understood as a determination that the movant has a "substantial case" or a "strong case on appeal" Id. at 26-27.

claimed to be unable to pay. Yet, White testified that he worked as a consultant for a law office in California, where he earned the sum of $700 per week. He also testified to an interest in a 200-acre family farm in Oklahoma which he had transferred to his sister for the benefit of their children. Most important, White disclosed that he had title to two automobiles and advised that each had a value of $3,500. Based on that testimony, this Court ruled that White had, at all times, the ability to pay the sanction. Accordingly, this Court issued the following order (the "First Contempt Order") on May 23, 2005 (six months from the date of the Sanctions Order), intended, in part, to permit White time to sell one or more of the vehicles to which he had testified:

It is hereby ORDERED that:

1. White is sanctioned in the additional amount of $1,000.00 on account of said contempt, for a total amount owed of $3,500.00;
2. White shall pay the amount of $3,500.00 to the Trustee on or before June 17, 2005;
3. The hearing on the Contempt Motion is continued to June 28, 2005 at 1:30 p.m. in Worcester, Massachusetts. In the event that, on or before June 28, 2005, the Trustee shall advise the Court that the full payment has been timely received, the said continued hearing shall be canceled. In the event that the Court shall, at the June 28, 2005 hearing, find that White has not timely made the payment in full, the Court may assess additional monetary sanctions or order White, there and then, to surrender to the United States Marshal in this District for incarceration until he shall purge himself of civil contempt. In the event that White shall fail to attend the June 28, 2005 continued hearing, the Court may issue a warrant to secure his attendance at a continued hearing thereof.

On June 27, 2005, the Trustee filed a certificate advising that White had failed to comply with the First Contempt Order. On June 28, 2005, White appeared at the scheduled hearing. White claimed, without credibility, that he could not sell the vehicles. There was no basis to believe that he had made any effort to do. Under the circumstances, his assertions amounted to a refusal. Based on his testimony on May 23, 2005 and June 28, 2005, this Court issued the following order (the "Second Contempt Order") on June 28, 2005:

Robert White is committed to the custody of the United States Marshal for the District of Massachusetts until the earlier of: 1) such time as Robert White shall pay the sum of $3,500.00 to attorney John Burdick, as Chapter 7 trustee of CK Liquidation Corp., or 2) July 12, 2005. If Robert White shall remain in custody of the United States Marshal on July 12, 2005, the United States Marshal shall deliver him to this Court sitting in Worcester, Massachusetts on July 12, 2005 at 2:00 P.M., at which time this Court shall determine what further actions should be taken in respect of this matter, including, without limitation, monetary sanctions and/or continued incarceration.

White was incarcerated by the United States Marshal at the Wyatt Detention Center in Rhode Island.<sup>15</sup>

On July 12, 2005, this Court conducted a continued contempt hearing. The sanction had still not been paid. Furthermore, this Court was unconvinced that White had made any attempt whatsoever to liquidate the vehicles. Accordingly, on July 12, 2005, this Court entered the following order (the "Third Contempt Order"), after requesting the Trustee to assist White, if necessary, in selling the vehicles:

<sup>15</sup> On June 29, 2005, White filed a so-called Writ of Habeas Corpus under 28 U.S.C. § 2254 in the District Court (4:05-cv-40104-FDS) (the "Habeas Proceeding"), naming as Respondents this Court, the United States Marshal and the Local Jail in which White was located. On December 29, 2005, the District Court (Saylor, J.) dismissed the Habeas Proceeding on various grounds. On January 3, 2006, White sought reconsideration of that order. Reconsideration was denied on January 6, 2006. On January 12, 2006, White filed an appeal to the First Circuit Court of Appeals, where the matter is now pending.

Robert White remains committed to the custody of the United States Marshal for the District of Massachusetts until the earliest of :1) such time as Robert White shall pay the sum of $3,500.00 to attorney John Burdick, as Chapter 7 trustee of CK Liquidation Corp; or 2) such time as Robert White shall have liquidated in arms-length sales all motor vehicles to which he has title and remitted the proceeds thereof to attorney Burdick as Chapter 7 trustee; or 3) August 9, 2005. If Robert White shall remain in this [sic] custody of the United States Marshal on August 9, 2005, the United States Marshal shall deliver him to this Court sitting in Worcester, Massachusetts on August 9, 2005 at 2:00 p.m., at which time this Court shall determine what further actions should be taken in respect of this matter, including, without limitation, monetary sanctions and/or continued incarceration.

On August 9, 2005, the Court conducted a further contempt hearing. The assertions made by the parties were no different. At this point, in an attempt to break the stalemate, the Court offered White an alternative. White would be released from incarceration if he would convey the automobiles to the Trustee so that the Trustee could liquidate them. White accepted that alternative, executing hand-drawn bills of sale. White was released from incarceration, and the Court continued the contempt hearing until January 31, 2006 to enable the Trustee to sell the vehicles (the "Fourth Contempt Order").

On January 31, 2006, the contempt hearing was reconvened. The Trustee reported his efforts to sell the vehicles. It is sufficient here to note only that those efforts by the Trustee were substantially below those expected of an estate functionary.<sup>16</sup> Counsel for the Trustee offered to share the blame. The Court accepted the offer and issued an order: 1) purging White of contempt and 2) ordering that each of the fee applications of the Trustee and Counsel for the Trustee would be reduced by

50% of the sanction originally ordered to be paid by White (the "Order Purging Contempt").

That should have ended the matter. It did not. On February 13, 2006, White filed an appeal to the District Court of all of the orders issued by the Court in connection with its original contempt order (the First Contempt Order of May 23, 2005, the Second Contempt Order of June 28, 2005, the Third Contempt Order of July 12, 2005, the Fourth Contempt Order of August 9, 2005 and the Order Purging Contempt of February 7, 2006).<sup>17</sup> Of course, that appeal entails a filing fee and other costs – which brings this Court to the matter now before it. White asks this Court for leave to permit him to proceed in the District Court appeal in forma pauperis. In support, he submits a form affidavit containing various financial information, including income, expenses and assets. White alleges that his average monthly income for the past 12 months and expected in the month following execution of the affidavit is in the amount of $1,605.00 and that his expenses total $1,195.00.<sup>18</sup> And included in his list of assets are the vehicles which were the subject of the contempt orders, this time valued at "$500" for one and "$3,000-2000" for the other.

<sup>17</sup> Since the filing of that appeal and the instant motion, White has filed yet another motion in this Court asking the Court to vacate the November 6, 2003 Sale Order.

<sup>18</sup> Expenses listed for his domestic partner add another $317.00. Her monthly income is listed at $50.00.

II. DISCUSSION

The Bankruptcy Appellate Panel for the First Circuit has recently held that a qualified debtor's appellate filing fees may be waived pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1915.<sup>19</sup>

- (a) (1) . . . any court of the United States may authorize the commencement, prosecution or defense of any suit, action or proceeding, civil or criminal, or appeal therein, without prepayment of fees or security therefor, by a person who submits an affidavit . . . that the person is unable to pay such fees or give security therefor. Such affidavit shall state the nature of the action, defense or appeal and affiant's belief that the person is entitled to redress.
- (3) An appeal may not be taken in forma pauperis if the trial court certifies in writing that it is not taken in good faith.
- (c) Upon the filing of an affidavit in accordance with subsection[ ] (a) . . . , the court may direct payment by the United States of the expenses of (1) printing the record on appeal in any civil or criminal case, if such printing is required by the appellate court; (2) preparing a transcript of proceedings before a United States magistrate judge in any civil or criminal case, if such transcript is required by the district court, in the case of proceedings conducted under section 636(b) of this title or under section 3401(b) of title 18, United States Code; and (3) printing the record on appeal if such printing is required by the appellate court, in the case of proceedings conducted pursuant to section 636(c) of this title. Such expenses shall be paid when authorized by the Director of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts.
- (e) . . . .
- (2) Notwithstanding any filing fee, or any portion thereof, that may have been paid, the court shall dismiss the case at any time if the court determines that –
  - (A) the allegation of poverty is untrue; or
  - (B) the action or appeal –
    - (i) is frivolous or malicious;

See Heghmann v. Indorf, et al. (In re Heghmann), 324 B.R. 415 (2005). Based on its reading of § 1915, the Heghmann Panel went on to note:

28 U.S.C. § 1915 provides that a petition to proceed in forma pauperis is granted or denied at the discretion of the court. However, the court's discretion is limited to determinations of poverty and objective good faith. Kinney v. Plymouth Rock Squab Co., 236 U.S. 43, 46, 35 S.Ct. 236, 59 L.Ed. 457 (1915). Good faith is demonstrated when an applicant seeks appellate review of any issue that is not frivolous. Coppedge v. United States, 369 U.S. 438, 445, 82 S.Ct. 917, 8 L.Ed.2d 21 (1962). Thus, a determination as to whether the Debtor's application to proceed in forma pauperis on appeal should be granted turns on two factors: (1) a showing by affidavit that he is unable to pay the filing fees, see Adkins v. E.I. DuPont de Nemours & Co., 335 U.S. 331, 339-40, 69 S.Ct. 85, 93 L.Ed. 43 (1948), and (2) a showing that the proposed proceedings are not frivolous or malicious, see 28 U.S.C. § 1915(e).

Heghmann at 420.

White's request to appear in forma pauperis satisfies neither factor. First, he is not impoverished. His monthly income ($1,605.00) exceeds his monthly expenses ($1,195.00) by $410.00. But second, and more important, the aforesaid history discloses the frivolous nature of all of White's filings in this Court, inclusive of the present appeal. As a result of those actions, designed by White to punish the estate functionaries for his lost opportunity to purchase the Debtor's assets, the estate's assets will have been greatly drained. When the Court sought to stop his actions by issuing an order of sanctions, White refused to comply, despite the fact that he actually testified to ownership of vehicles whose value was twice the amount of the Sanctions

(ii) fails to state a claim on which relief may be granted; or

(iii) seeks monetary relief against a defendant who is immune from such relief.

The statute is not limited to debtor, as opposed to nondebtor, appellants.

Order. Indeed, even in the current affidavit, he refers to his ownership of those vehicles and claims that their total combined value is at least $2,500.00.

The various forms of relief sought by White have been repeatedly denied by this Court, and its findings and rulings, when reached, have been affirmed by the District Court, the First Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel and the First Circuit Court of Appeals. The Supreme Court has been approached to review the matter and has declined. Yet, White persists in his efforts, even to the point of filing, within the past several days, yet another motion in this Court to vacate the 2003 Sale Order.

It is clear that the various forms of relief requested by White have long ago moved beyond frivolous to the malicious and vexatious. Against this backdrop, White asks the taxpayers of the United States of America to subsidize his newest appellate venture. There is no justification for an answer other than a resounding "no."

III. CONCLUSION

For the reasons stated above, White's motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis with his appeal of this Court's First, Second, Third and Fourth Contempt Orders and the Order Purging Contempt is DENIED. Unless all of the applicable appellate filing and other fees have been received by the clerk of this court by April 4, 2006, this Court will dismiss the appeal, pursuant to District Court Local Rule 203.

An order will issue forthwith in conformity with this Memorandum of Decision.

MOTION TO DISMISS APPEAL

John A. Burdick, Chapter 7 Trustee of CK Liquidation Corporation, the Appellee in the above-captioned matter (the "Trustee"), hereby requests that this Court enter an order dismissing the appeal of Robert White ("White"), taken from an order of the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Massachusetts (the "Bankruptcy Court"), announced on January 31, 2006, and later entered by means of written order dated February 6, 2006, amended on February 7, 2006 (the "Order"), in the Chapter 7 case of CK Liquidation Corporation (f/k/a CADKEY Corporation) (Case No. 03-44906-HJB) (the "Chapter 7 Case").<sup>1</sup> In further support of this Motion, the Trustee states as follows:

1. Pursuant to the Order, entered in response to the Application to Employ Auctioneer filed with the Bankruptcy Court by the Trustee on January 10, 2006 (the "Auctioneer

Motion"), the Bankruptcy Court ordered that White be "purged of any contempt of this Court's previous orders that he pay to the bankruptcy estate sanctions in the sum of $3,500 . . . ."

[Bankr. Docket No. 708.]<sup>2</sup> No other provision of the Order has any effect, direct or indirect, on White.

2. White does not have standing to appeal the Order. "Only a 'person aggrieved' by a bankruptcy court order has standing to appeal." Spenlinhauer v. O'Donnell (In re Spenlinhauer), 261 F.3d 113, 117 (1st Cir. 2001); see also In re El San Juan Hotel, 809 F.2d 151, 154 (1st Cir. 1987); In re Shkolnikov, 2006 WL 240760, *2 (B.A.P. 1st Cir. Feb. 2, 2006). As the First Circuit explained:

The 'person aggrieved' paradigm, which delimits appellate jurisdiction even more stringently than the doctrine of Article III standing, [citations omitted] bestows standing only where the challenged order directly and adversely affects an appellant's pecuniary interests.

Spenlinhauer, 261 F.3d at 117-18 (citing Kowal v. Malkemus (In re Thompson), 965 F.2d 1136, 1142 n. 9 (1st Cir. 1992)). As is obvious from the terms of the Order, White's appeal seeks review of an order that does not adversely affect his pecuniary interests. Indeed, the Order is favorable to White's pecuniary interests. Accordingly, the appeal should be dismissed because White lacks standing before this Court.

3. In his Notice of Appeal [Bankr. Docket No. 710], White, in addition to appealing the Order, seeks review of prior orders of the Bankruptcy Court, entered on May 23, 2005 [Bankr. Docket No. 550], June 28, 2005 [Bankr. Docket No. 604], July 12, 2005 [Bankr. Docket No. 609] and August 9, 2005 [Bankr. Docket Nos. 618 and 619] (collectively, the "Contempt Orders"). The Contempt Orders found White to be in contempt of earlier orders of the Bankruptcy Court sanctioning him for filing frivolous pleadings presented for the improper purpose of harassing estate functionaries.<sup>3</sup> However, White did not previously take an appeal from any of the Contempt Orders. As is obvious from the dates of the Contempt Orders, the time for filing an appeal therefrom has long since expired, see Fed. R. Bankr. P. 8002(a) (ten-day notice period for appeals of bankruptcy court orders), and the present attempt to revive appeal periods long since passed should be dismissed by this Court.<sup>4</sup>

4. Together with the Notice of Appeal, White filed a Designation of Issues on Appeal [Bankr. Docket No. 712] (the "Designation").<sup>5</sup> In the Designation, White identifies nine issues for consideration by this Court, none of which address the propriety of the Bankruptcy Court's Order purging his contempt. Instead, each of the issues cited by White pertains to the Contempt Orders described above. However, pursuant to the Order, White was relieved of any

<sup>3</sup> The Bankruptcy Court's order dated November 16, 2004 sanctioned White $2,500 in connection with his conduct in the Chapter 7 Case (the "Initial Sanctions Order"). [Bankr. Docket No. 386.] The Bankruptcy Court's subsequent order dated May 23, 2005, in addition to finding White in contempt of the Initial Sanctions Order, sanctioned him an additional $1,000 (the "Second Sanctions Order"). [Bankr. Docket No. 550.]

<sup>4</sup> Additionally, the Initial Sanctions Order, sanctioning White $2,500 for filing frivolous and improper pleadings, was appealed to the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel of the First Circuit Court of Appeals, where it was affirmed by order of the Panel dated March 11, 2005, In re CK Liquidation Corp., 321 B.R. 355 (B.A.P. 1st Cir. 2005), and is now before the First Circuit Court of Appeals, Case No. 05-9004, pursuant to a further appeal filed by White.

<sup>5</sup> A copy of the Designation is attached hereto as Exhibit B. The Designation sets forth the following issues for appeal:

1. Did the Bankruptcy Court err by finding that Appellant willfully disobeyed the Court's $2,500 sanction order?
2. Did the Bankruptcy Court err by finding that Appellant had enough money to pay the Court's $2,500 sanction?
3. Did the Bankruptcy Court err by finding that Appellant had property that Appellant could sell to pay the Court's $2,500 sanction?
4. Did the Bankruptcy Court err by increasing Appellant's $2,500 sanction to $3,500 after the Court held Appellant in contempt?
5. Did the Bankruptcy Court err by sentencing Appellant beyond the least coercive sentence necessary to cause Appellant to pay the Court's sanction?
6. Did the Bankruptcy Court put Appellant in double jeopardy of the same crime by repetitively punishing Appellant for the same criminal contempt?
7. Did the Bankruptcy Court violate Appellant's Constitutional Right to a jury trial?
8. Did the Bankruptcy Court violate Appellant's Constitutional Right to being represented by counsel?
9. Did the Bankruptcy Court violate Appellant's Constitutional Right to seek redress of his grievances by holding Appellant in contempt?

further obligation to pay the sanctions assessed in the Initial Sanctions Order, the Second Sanctions Order and the Contempt Orders. Thus, in addition to his lack of appellate standing as an "aggrieved party," all of the issues which White wishes to present to this Court are moot – White is not liable to the Trustee for payment of any of the amounts described in the Designation.

5. Further, it would be nonsensical, and a complete waste of this Court's time and resources, to consider the merits of an appeal of the Order. The best that White could hope for, as a result of the Court's appellate review, is for the Order to be reversed, thus exposing him again to liability for unpaid sanctions. Whether such a result is in White's interest or not, compelling the Trustee to expend the limited resources of the Chapter 7 estate on such litigation would be entirely inappropriate. Where, as here, the appellate review is entirely lacking in merit, it is proper that it be dismissed before the parties are compelled to expend further time and resources in responding to it.

6. Finally, it should be noted that, whether or not he is assessed a monetary sanction in connection with his conduct, White has compelled the Trustee to respond, in the Chapter 7 Case, to repetitive and duplicative motions and objections, and multiple appeals.<sup>6</sup> Based on

<sup>6</sup> A partial list of White's filings in this case (in addition to the protracted litigation with White over sanctions for filing frivolous and non-meritorious pleadings, also on appeal before the First Circuit Court of Appeals) follows:

- Objection to the proposed sale of the assets of the debtor, based on alleged improprieties in the bidding process; denied by the Bankruptcy Court; Bankruptcy Court's ruling affirmed by the District Court; Bankruptcy Court and District Court rulings affirmed by the First Circuit Court of Appeals; petition for certiorari presently pending in the United States Supreme Court.
- Motion to Vacate Sale Order, based on alleged fraud on the Court; denied by the Bankruptcy Court; Motion for Reconsideration filed by White, and also denied by the Bankruptcy Court; Bankruptcy Court's orders affirmed by the District Court; White has attempted direct appeal of the District Court's ruling to the United States Supreme Court.
- Motion to Disgorge Fees, seeking an order compelling counsel to the debtor and the official unsecured creditors committee to return their previously approved fees to the bankruptcy estate; denied by the Bankruptcy Court; attempted appeal to the District Court dismissed for failure to pay filing fees.
- Multiple objections to Trustee's motion to retain special counsel to represent him in connection with litigation matters initiated by White.

several communications received from White during the Chapter 7 Case, it is plain that this strategy is designed to compel the Trustee to reach a monetary settlement with White that is not supported by his position as a general unsecured creditor in the Chapter 7 Case. Filing an appeal of a decision that upholds his own position in the case is yet another, obvious example of that strategy, and should not be countenanced by this Court. The appeal should therefore be dismissed, so as to avoid the burden and expense that it would otherwise impose on the innocent creditors of the bankruptcy estate.

WHEREFORE, John A. Burdick, the Chapter 7 Trustee of the debtor CK Liquidation Corporation, respectfully requests that this Court enter an order:

1. Dismissing the appeal of the Order and the Contempt Orders; and
2. Granting such further and additional relief as the Court deems appropriate.

DESIGNATION OF ISSUES ON APPEAL

I, Robert White, a pro se creditor in the above captioned bankruptcy proceedings, having appealed the:

the initial, interlocutory, and final contempt orders issued by the court on May 23, 2005, June 28, 2005, July 12, 2005, August 9, 2005, and February 7, 2006, represented by docket items #554, #604, #608, #618, #619, and #708 respectfully, do hereby designate the following issues on appeal:

1. Did the Bankruptcy Court err by finding that Appellant willfully disobeyed the Court's order to pay its $2,500 sanction?
2. Did the Bankruptcy Court err by finding that Appellant had enough money to pay the Court's $2,500 sanction?
3. Did the Bankruptcy Court err by finding that Appellant had property that Appellant could sell to pay the Court's $2,500 sanction?
4. Did the Bankruptcy Court err by increasing Appellant's $2,500 sanction to $3,500 after the Court held Appellant in contempt?
5. Did the Bankruptcy Court err by sentencing Appellant beyond the least coercive sentence necessary to cause Appellant to pay the Court's sanction?
6. Did the Bankruptcy Court put Appellant in double jeopardy of the same crime by repetitively punishing Appellant for the same criminal contempt?
7. Did the Bankruptcy Court violate Appellant's Constitutional Right to a jury trial?
8. Did the Bankruptcy Court violate Appellant's Constitutional Right to being represented by counsel?
9. Did the Bankruptcy Court violate Appellant's Constitutional Right to seek redress of his grievances by holding Appellant in contempt?

Respectfully submitted on February 7, 2006.

re: CK Liquidation Corporation, bankruptcy case no. 03-44906.

Dear Michael,

I am anxious to resolve my disputed claim with the estate. Since there is no benefit for the estate or myself to litigate my disputed claim, I propose that the Trustee stipulate that my claim be valued at its limit of $1,887,000. My contract had a $2.5 mil. limit and I have been paid a total of $613,000 by the debtor over five years, leaving $1,887,000 yet to be paid. Any other method of evaluation of my claim would require a complex and contested evidentiary process whereby the buyer would have to disclose its revenue over the past two years in order to calculate the actual value of my claim based on the buyer's sales of products containing my intellectual property. If a stipulated method of claim resolution is satisfactory with you please have the Trustee sign, file, and serve my included Stipulation, or propose a Stipulation of your own.

Best Regards,

Robert White

Chapter 7

Case No. 03-44906-HJB

STIPULATION TO VALUE OF CLAIM

NOW COME the Chapter 7 Trustee and unsecured creditor Robert White (hereafter "White"), who hereby stipulate that the value of White's disputed claim is established to be $1,887,000. Said stipulated value is based upon facts alleged in the disputed claim White filed in this Court and upon the limit of royalties recoverable by White under his contract with the debtor in this case, upon which his claim is solely based.
